Curtiss Business College

LOCATED IN

St. Paul and Minneapolis, Minnesota,

Now in its EIGHTH YEAR, under the present management, has, in every sense of the word, been

A SUCCESSFUL INSTITUTION.

Its hundreds of graduates scattered over the entire country, occupying positions of trust and profit, attest the

they have received in this institution. During the present term there has been an attendance of more than

THREE HUNDRED PUPILS.

OUR COURSE OF STUDY embraces a thorough and comprehensive training in all the Commercial Branches of Study:

Business Arithmetic, Commercial Law, Practical Grammar, Business Correspondence, Penmanship, Political Economy, Spelling, and the Theory and Practice of Book-keeping.

THE LOCATION OF THE COLLEGE

In both cities is just where a school for business training should be—in the midst of great business houses and great business men.

The rooms are more easy of access than any rooms in the West, and are abundantly supplied with sunlight and pure air;—considerations of immense value to the large number of pupils assembled.

Circulars giving Rates, Course of Study and other information, will be sent to any address, on application to

A large, ornate, handwritten signature in black ink. The letters are fluid and cursive, forming the name "O.O. Curtiss". The signature is enclosed within a decorative oval border.

MOORHEAD. This enterprising city is located at the junction of the N. P. R. R. with the St. P., M. & M. Ry, on the east bank of the Red River of the North, which at this point is navigable. It is the county seat of Clay county, was established in 1871 and incorporated as a city in 1881, and contains 3,000 inhabitants. From its situation it is an important distributing centre for northwestern Minnesota and eastern Dakota and possesses facilities for shipping, both by rail and water, that are unsurpassed. The leading manufactory of the place is the Moorhead Mills, with a capacity of 150 barrels of flour per day. Moorhead contains 2 national banks (capital, in aggregate $125,000), a newspaper, the Clay County Advocate, several hotels, 2 parks, 4 churches, good schools (high school building recently erected at a cost of $15,000), a hall, an opera house, a grain elevator, 4 brick yards, a large brewery, an agricultural machinery factory and a full representation of all the various professions and callings. The assessed value of real and personal estate here is $341,546, and the bonded debt is $30,000. The export trade in lumber and wheat is very extensive. Splendid farming OWATONNA. The seat of justice for Steele county, with a population of 3,500, and growing rapidly, is beautifully located on Straight river, a water power stream, near the centre of the county, at the intersection of the I. & M. div. C., M. & St. P. and the W. & St. P. div. C. & N. W. Ry, 70 miles south of Minneapolis, and is surrounded with a rich agricultural country. The city is well built, has many fine business blocks and handsome residences, and is noted as a live business point, and is destined to become one of the chief manufacturing points of the west from its natural advantages of good water power and railroad facilities for distributing in all directions. Among the manufacturing and business establishments are 4 flouring mills, 2 large grain elevators and several smaller ones, 2 foundries and machine shops, 2 good hotels, 2 banks, 3 newspapers, the Journal, Press and Herald, and a full representation of all the various professions and trades. Twelve churches, comprising various denominations, 5 good public schools, having a force of 14 teachers, a public library, an opera house and a fire department are sustained. In addition to her public school system, Owatonna has a college and seminary, one under the auspices of the Baptist society, the other conducted by the Sisters of St. Francis. Both are well known institutions, and add greatly to the educational advantages of the city. Owatonna is beautifully laid out, and presents an attractive appearance. Its public square, natural park and mineral springs are much admired by visitors. The shipments are wheat, live stock and farm produce, of which large quantities are exported. PERHAM. This village was incorporated in 1881, and contains a population of 600. It is a station on the N. P. R. R., in the northern part of Otter Tail county, 40 miles northeast of Fergus Falls (c h), and 210 from Minneapolis. It is located on the Otter Tail river, where available water power is obtainable. In the immediate vicinity are two beautiful lakes, the picturesque scenery surrounding which is much admired. This is a fine agricultural country, where lumber abounds, and from which large quantities of wheat are shipped. A grist mill is propelled by water power, and a steam saw-mill is in operation. Here also is a church, graded school, an elevator, hotel, and the usual number of stores and residences. The nature of the soil hereabouts is a sandy loam, very productive, and land is obtainable at prices ranging from $3 to $10 per acre for wild, and $12 to $25 for improved. An excellent opening is presented at this point for a sash, door and blind factory or planing mill. Stage to Fergus Falls semi-weekly. Exp., N. P. R. R. Mail, daily. Henry Kemper, postmaster.

RED WING. One of the most important cities on the Mississippi river, and ranking fifth as to population (numbering 6,000), and fourth in valuation, enterprise and industry in the state of Minnesota. It was originally established in 1853, and incorporated as a city in 1860. Its admirable location as county seat of Goodhue county, on the west bank of the river, a few miles above the head of Lake Pepin, and on the-line of the C., M. & St. P. Ry, 41 miles distant from St. Paul, and 52 from Minneapolis, makes a large and valuable area of the surrounding country tributary to its commerce. As a manufacturing and business centre its importance is at once apparent. One of its chief industries, the milling of flour, is very extensively carried on, 3 large mills are in operation, which consume all the wheat raised in the adjacent country, in addition to which large quantities are imported from other parts of the state. Five hotels contribute to the needs of the traveling public. The banks, which are three in number, have an aggregate capital of $210,000. Three weekly newspapers are published, the Argus, Republican and Advance, an extensive foundry and machine shop is operated, and furniture, woodenware, stoneware, boots and shoes, agricultural implements, lumber, brick and artificial stone are manufactured. The manufacture of lime, by F. J. Linne, has lately obtained prominence among its industries. The city is well built, contains many fine business blocks and handsome residences, is lighted by gas, supports a fire department, has a bonded debt of $33,000, and total valuation of $2,750,000. Religion is represented by 15 church edifices, representing all the principal denominations, and the educational system is composed of a high school and 8 common schools, employing 18 teachers for 1,100 scholars. A library in connection with the schools is also a feature. It has stage communication with Cannon Falls and Ellsworth, Wis., daily, and with Faribault and Zumbrota tri-weekly. Exp., Am. Tel., W. U. Mail, daily. A. F. Graves, postmaster.

justice for Olmsted county, near the centre of which it is situated, on the W. and St. P. div. C. & N. W. Ry, 63 miles from St. Paul and 74 from Minneapolis, and on the Zumbro river, which supplies some of the finest water power in the state. Among the manufacturing and business interests of the place may be mentioned 7 flour mills, 2 planing mills, 2 furniture factories, 2 foundries, a woolen mill, a fine opera house, 3 banks, having an aggregate capital of $200,000 with a surplus of $55,000, 4 newspapers—the Rochester Herald (German), the Record and Union, the Olmsted County Democrat, and the Rochester Post, which is the leading paper in the county—several first-class hotels, principal among which are the Pierce House and Cook's Hotel. The educational and religious facilities of the city are ample, and consist of 10 churches, representing the Methodist, Presbyterian, Baptist, Congregational, Episcopal, Universalist, Catholic and Lutheran persuasions. The graded schools employ 20 teachers, and have an enrollment of 1,375 scholars. This city is also the location of the second Minnesota State Hospital for the Insane and the Academy of Notre Dame De Lourdes. During the past two years many new buildings have been erected and vast improvements made. The city now has an assessed valuation of $1,897,696, a bonded debt of $20,000, and a population of 4,334. The soil in the vicinity is a rich loam, eminently adapted for agricultural purposes. Adjacent improved land can be purchased at an average price of $50 per acre. The shipments comprise flour, wheat, cheese, live stock and pork. A paid fire department, consisting of a steamer, 3 hose carriages and 2 hook and ladder companies. Stage to Faribault and Spring Valley tri-weekly and to High Forest daily. Exp., Am. Tel., W. U. Mail, daily. Abraham Harkins, postmaster.

ST. CLOUD. Situated on the west bank of the Mississippi river, in Stearns county, of which it is the seat, and on the F. F. div. St. P., M. & M. Ry and the N. P. R. R., 65 miles from Minneapolis and 76 from St. Paul. St. Cloud is the supply and shipping point for a large section of the surrounding country, and among its manufacturing and business establishments are three flouring mills, driven by water power obtained from the Sauk river, which at this point unites with the Mississippi, 2 saw-mills, 3 planing mills, 2 foundries and a plow factory are operated by steam. Two banks are here, with an aggregate capital of $75,000. Three newspapers are published, the Journal-Press, Nordstern (German) and Times. Three hotels cater to the needs of the traveling public, and all the various trades and professions are well represented. This city is the site of one of the three State normal schools, which occupies an imposing and handsome structure, erected at a cost of nearly $60,000. The religious requirements are ample, and consist of 6 church edifices, representing the Episcopal, Presbyterian, Methodist, Baptist and Catholic denominations. Besides the State normal school there are 2 graded public schools, employing 9 teachers, and having an enrollment of 250 scholars, and a Catholic seminary is also located here. St. Cloud was incorporated as a town in 1856, and as a city in 1868, and now contains a population of 3,000, has an assessed valuation of $708,000, and a bonded debt of $30,000. Land in the adjacent country is eminently adapted for agricultural purposes, and is estimated to be worth $10 to $25 per acre for unimproved, and $20 to $100 for improved farms. The exports consist of flour, wheat, lumber, and the various articles manufactured here. Exp., Am. and N. P. Tel., W. U. Stage tri-weekly to Paynesville, and daily to Fair Haven. Mail, daily. J. E. ST. PAUL. The capital of Minnesota, and the commercial metropolis of the northwest, is situated on a commanding site on the bluffs overlooking the Mississippi river, and occupies a magnificent commercial position at the head of navigation, as a few miles higher the Falls of St. Anthony form a barrier to further progress. Fifty years ago only a few straggling settlers had penetrated to the spot where now stands this important city, whose growth has been marvelous in the past, and promises to continue to improve in the same degree in the future. The site of the city was originally included in the military reservation of Fort Snelling, which was established in 1819, but it was not until 1837, after a treaty had been made with the Dakota Indians, by which the lands on the east side of the river came into the possession of the government, that the real settlement of the place commenced, the first settlers being Pierre Parrant and Wm Beaunette, and the first church was founded in 1841 by the Rev. Father Gaultier, who dedicated it to St. Paul, from which fact the future city obtained its name. The postoffice was opened in 1846, but it was not until 1847 that the first school was established, the first hotel being opened in the same year. In 1849 the territory of Minnesota was organized and St. Paul selected as its capital, incorporated as a town, and made the county seat of Ramsey county, which was organized at the same time. The first newspaper—the Pioneer, was published on the 28th day of April in that year. The population in the following year (1850) was 1,294, and this year marks the commencement of the regular trade with the river ports below, the establishment of stores, and the opening of a commercial epoch, the amount of trade with outside communities for that year being estimated at $130,000.

In 1854 the place was divided into 3 wards, organized under a city charter, and David Olmsted was chosen as first Mayor, with a board of 9 Aldermen, and a Board of Education was also elected, the population at this period being estimated at 5,000. The city grew rapidly and business flourished, new branches of trade being developed, real estate speculation increased to a great extent, new hotels and business blocks sprang up on all sides, until the financial crash of 1857 seriously crippled St. Paul, causing widespread distress and ruin to thousands, and largely reducing the population. The city, however, was too soundly established to feel more than a temporary embarrassment, and a reaction soon took place, and the result of the war of the rebellion was to give a great impetus to the trade of St. Paul, since which period her progress has been steady and prosperous in the highest degree.

In 1856, the first wholesale house was opened by B. Beau-pre; in 1858, Minnesota was organized as a state and St. Paul made the permanent capital, although efforts were made at times to have some other town selected, a measure to this effect was actually passed in 1869, removing the capital to some place in Kandiyohi county, but it was vetoed by the Governor.

The growth of the city can perhaps be most easily shown by means of the population returns, which are as follows:

1850.....	840
1855.....	4,400
1857.....	9,973
1860.....	10,600
1865.....	13,210
1868.....	20,118
1870.....	22,300
1871.....	25,200
1872.....	27,023
1875.....	33,178
1880.....	41,498

In this year (1882), the population can safely be estimated at 50,000 souls. The increase in the volume of business is no less remarkable, the figures for the wholesale trade alone having increased from $7,500,000 in 1869, to $36,948,000 in 1879, and being over $40,000,000 in 1880. The banking capital, also increased from $1,125,000, to $2,523,000 during the same period. For the same years we have respectively: average deposits from $1,400,000 to $5,000,000, while exchange sold was $16,600,000 and $45,000,000 respectively. In 1880, the figures advanced to loans $7,437,000, exchange $51,500,- 000, and in 1881, the still more remarkable increase to loans $10,332,000; exchange $69,800,000, showing an increase for 1881, of loans $2,895,000; exchange $18,300,000. Real estate sales for 1881, amounted to the large sum of $4,345,991, while the present years transactions bid fair to exceed $5,000,-000. A careful estimate of the amount expended in 1881, in building operations, places it at the enormous sum of $4,600,-000.

THE WHOLESALE TRADE.

The wholesale trade of St. Paul, has grown in a rapid and remarkable manner. Starting in 1864, from a comparatively small nucleus, the aggregate of this trade had reached the respectable figure of $7,500,000 in 1869; in 1877, it had expanded to nearly $28,000,000; in 1879, it reached the astonishing amount of $36,949,000. This is wholesale trade strictly and does not include the value of manufactures which in 1879 reached the magnificent total of $8,967,200. In 1880, as nearly as could be ascertained these figures had reached $40,000,000, while in 1881, there was the startling increase of 25 per cent., bringing the amount up to the sum of $52,248,265, of which dry goods reached $7,550,000, and groceries $6,550,000; while sales in drugs, boots and shoes, hats and caps, hardware, grain, fuel, lumber, wines and liquors, agricultural implements, machinery, leather, etc., were proportionally large.

MANUFACTURES.

The progress of the manufacturing interests of St. Paul has been equally astonishing. In 1877 the amount aggregated $4,991,657, which in 1879 had swollen to $8,967,200. These figures include articles of almost every kind—agricultural implements, jewelry, medicines, leather goods, clothing, castings, forgings, machinery, etc., etc.,—too numerous to be particularized. In 1880 the figures had grown to $12,212,148, while in 1881 the grand total of $16,071,535 was reached.

The grand aggregate of all business—wholesale, manufacturing, banking, buildings, real estate transactions,—the sum total of all that pertains to the business of the city for 1881, is estimated at $170,000,000—an extraordinary showing for a city of the size of St. Paul.

As a place of residence, irrespective of its business advantages, St. Paul possesses many attractions. Beautifully located in the midst of a picturesque region, with a healthy, temperate climate, and with all the modern improvements as regards water supply, gas, sewerage and other public works, beautiful parks, with social, literary and artistic clubs and societies, and the political capital of the State, St. Paul has advantages that are excelled by few cities on the continent.

krat (G), Federal Reporter, Skaffuren, Northwestern Chronicle, Northwestern Reporter, Die Volkszeitung (G), Der Nord-vesten, Wanderer (G), and the Minnehaha (G), weekly. The Pioneer Press is published simultaneously in St. Paul and Minneapolis.

HOTELS.

St. Paul is very popular as a summer resort, and thousands of strangers flock there every year, and for their accommodation first-class hotels are numerous. Among those deserving of special notice for superiority of appointments and capacity may be mentioned the

which has been recently enlarged by the addition of another story, and now contains 250 rooms for guests, and can easily accommodate 350 people. It is heated by steam, has an elevator, is magnificently furnished, and is not surpassed out of Chicago in its appointments, which are all first class. It is but one block from the railway depot, and is a great resort for travelers, the number of guests ranging above 100 daily. Its worthy proprietor, Col. A. Allen, has for many years been identified with the growth and prosperity of St. Paul, and is a popular, liberal minded and enterprising man.

THE METROPOLITAN

is another of St. Paul's famous hotels, and under the popular management of the proprietor, Col. E. C. Belote, enjoys a large share of the patronage of tourists and travelers. It is situated on Washington street, and occupies a site extending 80 feet on Third, 200 feet on Washington, and 100 feet on Fourth streets, is 5 stories in height, with 200 rooms, and accommodation for 300 guests. It is a well built hotel, handsomely furnished, and provided with all modern improvements and appliances for convenience and comfort, being heated by steam, with cold and hot water supply on each floor, elevator, good ventilation, and is conducted in a first class manner in every respect. The Clarendon, on Wabasha street, is also a good hotel, receiving a fair share of popular patronage.

The city is governed by a mayor and board of aldermen, 12 in number, elected from the six wards into which the city is divided, has a good board of health and board of public works, an efficient police force, and a fire department with 4 steam fire engines, 4 hose companies, a hook and ladder service, and a system of electric fire alarms.

There is a good supply of water, obtained at a cost of $500,000, and brought from Lake Phalen, upwards of 20 miles of piping being laid, 185 hydrants and 150 valves fixed, and these are being rapidly extended as the needs of the city demand it. Three hospitals contribute to alleviate the sufferings of the distressed and friendless; 3 orphan asylums provide for the fatherless, and the House of the Good Shepherd and the Home of the Friendless are doing good work in sheltering the destitute.

In addition to these charities there are large numbers of benevolent societies, building and loan associations, and other institutions of a similar character.

There are 6 public banks, whose aggregate capital is $2,600,000, and the surplus, $765,000, and a Chamber of Commerce and Board of Trade look after the business interests of the city.

The secret and benevolent societies are numerous, and comprise lodges, chapters and councils of the A. F. & A. Masons, Knights Templar and Royal Arch Masons; lodges of the A. O. U. W., Independent Order of Odd Fellows, and of B'nai B'rith, Knights of Honor, Knights of Pythias, Ancient Order of Druids, etc.

Such is a brief sketch of the present status of St. Paul, many noteworthy points and items of interest being necessarily omitted from the limited amount of space at our command. Enough has however been given to show the rapid strides made by this flourishing city in wealth, commercial activity, population, etc., and her present outlook is that she is, so to speak, but on the threshold of her prosperity, and without doubt the next decade will exhibit such an expansion of her trade and population as will astonish the world still more than her already wonderful growth, and enable her to claim, without the least opposition, the proud title of the Empire City of the Great Northwest.

The Western Union Telegraph Company and the Northwestern Telephone Exchange Company have offices in the city. The express companies doing business here are the American, the Northern Pacific, and the United States. David Day, postmaster.

Note.—During the past year some progress has been made in renumbering the city, which has caused a little confusion in street numbers. In all cases where requisite, the word "old" or "new" follows the number given in this work.

—THE—

GALENIC MEDICAL INSTITUTE.

Office, No. 67 East Third Street, up stairs.

Nearly opp. Pioneer Press Building, between Minnesota and Cedar Streets.

ESTABLISHED 1861.

For the cure of PRIVATE, NERVOUS and CHRONIC DISEASES, including Spermatorrhœa or Seminal Weakness, Nervous Debility, Impotency, Syphilis, Gonorrhœa, Gleet, Stricture, Varicocele, Hydrocele, Diseases of Women, etc.

COPYRIGHTED.

The physicians of this old and reliable Institute specially treat all of the above diseases—are regular graduates—and guarantee a cure in every case undertaken, and may be consulted personally or by letter.

NO FEE TILL CURED.

Sufferers from any of those ailments, before consulting others, should understand their disease and the latest Improved Treatment adopted at our Institute, by reading our books.

“THE SECRET MONITOR!” AND GUIDE TO HEALTH.

A Private Medical Treatise on the Diseases of the Urinary and Generative Organs, including Spermatorrhœa or Seminal Weakness, Impotency, Syphilis, Gonorrhœa, Gleet, Stricture, Varicocele, Hydrocele, Diseases of Women, and their improved method of treatment, together with the Anatomy and Physiology of the Sexual System in health and disease, containing 300 pages and over 100 plates and engravings, sent to any address under seal, on receipt of price, 30 cents or postage stamps. Hundreds who have read this book, including Ministers of the Gospel, Professors of Colleges, teachers and scholars, have declared to me that if they had met with such a work in their younger days, it would have been worth thousands of dollars to them, in saving them years of ill health, mental anxiety and suffering.

N. B.—Observe this is not a vulgar, immoral or obscene book, but a strictly Medical Work, designed to warn and instruct.

A PRIVATE MEDICAL PAMPHLET,

Of 32 pages, on the above diseases, with valuable information for those afflicted, sent in a sealed envelope on receipt of one three-cent stamp. Circulars sent free. The physicians of the Institute especially treat all the above diseases, and may be consulted personally or by letter. Office hours 8 A. M. to 7 P. M., Sundays excepted.

TO CORRESPONDENTS.—Give your name, postoffice, county, State, in each letter. Address all letters thus:

STILLWATER. The county seat of Washington county, stands at the head of Lake St. Croix, 18 miles northeast of St. Paul and 30 from Minneapolis, and is the business and manufacturing centre of the entire St. Croix lumber district, extending northward and spreading over a large section of Minnesota and Wisconsin. It is the head of Mississippi navigation, being accessible to the largest boats in the carrying business above St. Louis, throughout the boating season. Its population is now something over 11,000, and is rapidly increasing, and in size and amount of business it is the third city in the state. Settled in 1843, when Minnesota was part of the territory of Wisconsin, Stillwater has steadily progressed. It was platted and recorded as a village in 1848, and incorporated as a city in March, 1854, originally settled for lumbering purposes, the leading interest thus far in the history of the place has been its lumber business and manufacture, but other industries are now rapidly assuming mammoth proportions, and there will be a demand for at least 800 more skilled mechanics in the city during 1882. Facilities for the transportation of the products of Stillwater and its vicinity are afforded by three lines of railroad and the river. The railroads are: The Stillwater br. H. & D div. C., M. & St. P. Ry; Stillwater br. C., St. P., M. & O. Ry, and the St. P. & D. R. R.

At the office of the surveyor general of logs and lumber at this point, there were sealed during 1881, 1,297,048 logs, amounting to 260,945,720 feet. Of this amount there were sawed in the district 130,136,400 feet of lumber, besides 70,938,500 shingles, 40,236,750 lath, and 362,000 pickets. The operations at the boom for 1881 were as follows:

Logs in boom Jan. 1, 1881, feet.....	6,107,000
Logs in boom Jan 1, 1882, feet.....	1,750,000
Handled during the season, feet.....	232,038,000
In excess of best previous season.....	27,000,000
Average number of feet to log.....	198 $\frac{1}{2}$
Average number of men employed.....	235
Paid labor account.....	$56,000

The flouring firms of the city are Townshend & Co, Stillwater Mills, and the St. Croix Mills of Isaac Staples, capacity per day 950 barrels. Wheat bought in 1881, 915,000 bushels; cost, $889,500. Manufactured during the year, 186,000 barrels. Sold, 176,000. Receipts, $1,010,000. The Union elevator has a present capacity of 300,000 bushels of wheat, and the Union elevator feed mills have a capacity of 100 tons of ground feed daily, and run day and night.

The city has the best opera house northwest of Chicago, and has 1 daily paper and 4 weeklies. It has excellent water works, owned by private citizens, and costing up to the present time $200,000. These afford perfect protection from fire. The Lumbermen's National Bank and First National Bank have each recently increased capital stock to $250,000 and surplus to $50,000 each. The gas company reported an output of 4,000,000 cubic feet in 1881. There was expended for new buildings during the year $844,549.

Stillwater has a good city hall, a public library, 2 excellent graded schools, with 18 teachers and an average attendance of 1,200 pupils. In addition the German congregation have parochial schools. The churches are Methodist, Presbyterian, Episcopal, German Methodist, German Lutheran, Swedish Lutheran, Congregational, Universalist and Catholic. The press is represented by the Gazette, the Lumberman, the Messenger and the St. Croix Post (German). Tel., W. U.

WINONA. This city, the third in the State, which now has a population of 10,200 (census 1880), is situated on the west bank of the Mississippi river, 100 miles below the head of navigation, and 700 above its junction with the Missouri. It is distant 103 miles south of St. Paul, and 114 from Minneapolis, and is the seat of justice for county of same name. It is the centre of three lines of railroad, two of which are among the most extensive on the continent. The C. & N. W. and the C., M. & St. P. Rys intersect at this point, and it is at present the western terminus of the G. B. W. & St. P. Ry. These railroads connect Winona with the great lakes and with the whole of the eastern system to the sea board. The Mississippi river is also, of course, of great importance among the transportational advantages. Numerous lines of steamers connect this city daily with all river points, and the improvements projected and in course of construction under the auspices of the U. S. government give increased consequence to the river navigation, as the only means of competition whereby reasonable rates can be secured. Winona is the most important river point in the southern part of the State, and has long been known as the gate city of southern Minnesota. It is located on the eastern margin of that remarkable wheat belt which extends through Minnesota and Dakota, and whose surpassing richness and capacity for producing the great cereals are now attracting the attention and exciting the wonder of the civilized world. In this department of agriculture, in stock raising, and in all the leading industries, this city is unsurpassed. Hundreds of prosperous towns have recently sprung up along the adjacent railway lines, and their merchants and business men are looking to Winona as their base of supplies for the vast stretch of territory covered by their rapidly increasing trade. Three large flouring mills are now in successful operation within the city limits, and will soon have a capacity of 2,500 barrels per day. The flour manufactured here is of the finest quality, and commands a high price in all markets. In the manufacture of lumber this city ranks as a leading point. The three large saw-mills located here have a combined capacity of not far from 100,000,000 feet annually, and another mill equal in magnitude to any of those now in operation is soon expected to be erected. Among the special advantages offered by this city may be named its beautiful location and surroundings, its healthfulness, an effective system of water works operated at a constant fire pressure, gas works, first-class public schools, employing 35 teachers and having 1,278 scholars, affording the best advantages for education, churches of every denomination, and an intelligent and hospitable people, offering social advantages unsurpassed by those of any other city in the northwest.

MINNESOTA STATE NORMAL SCHOOL.

Winona is also the location of the first of the three State Normal Schools. It occupies a magnificent structure, erected at a cost of $150,000, and enjoys a wide fame as an institution imparting a thorough training to teachers for every grade of school work. It has one of the most complete libraries in the state, an elegant reading room, the largest general museum in the west, a complete chemical laboratory, an art gallery, a large collection of physical apparatus, besides many other advantages. Tuition is free to both sexes, and expenses of students are very low. There is also an excellent public library, 2 National and 2 private banks, with an aggregate capital of $300,000. Two daily newspapers—the Republican and Tribune, and five weeklies—the Adler, Democrat, Herald, Republican, and Westlieber Herold are supported. The assessed valuation of the city is $3,730,000, and the bonded indebtedness is $184,500. The chief—though by no means the only—shipments of the place are flour, grain and lumber. A NEW WORK

—ON—

Cancerous Diseases and Tumor

CINCINNATI, January, 1882.

I have revised a new edition of my work on Cancer and Tumors, adding much new matter. Each subject in this work is fully illustrated with engravings. This edition is larger than my last, and contains much that is new and valuable to know about the origin, progress, and probable termination of cases of Cancer and Tumor. It is my opinion that legions of persons have died annually in this country from Cancer who should not and would not have died, had they known more about the true character and early symptoms of these diseases. Too great importance cannot be attached to the beginning and true characteristic symptoms of these diseases. As an illustration, Some two years ago a very wealthy and intelligent gentleman was examined by me in this city. His case was that of epithelial cancer of the face. This gentleman had some time previous noticed a small pimple growing upon his face. It grew larger each week, and it became hard and angry. This gentleman procured an Encyclopaedia, and read everything pertaining to cancerous tumors and malignant growths. After this said to me: "I desire you to visit me twice a day until every vestige of this lump place upon my face is removed;" which I did, giving him the same careful attention that I would have done had I treated him for cholera, or any other dangerous disease as I well knew, and so did he, by reading, that, though this disease was in its incipient stage, if not arrested it would assume all of the stages that would finally consume his face and destroy his life. I claimed, and he well knew it to be a fact, that the disease on his face had all of the characteristics of a cancer, and which he could not have known except by close reading. Another illustration is the case of Anthony Harkness, of this city, whose case is reported in this work, of cancer of the nose. The facts were, that when on his voyage to Europe, he noticed, as did his friends, a small fungus, or growth, or lump. By the time he reached Paris it had attracted his attention to that extent that he applied to a surgeon, who, before he gave Mr. Harkness his opinion, called his students into his private consulting room, and requested them to look at the beginning of a "beautiful rose cancer," with the remark "that he would have to die from this small trouble," it then appeared. This medical gentleman, by his great experience and skill, was able to discover at once the peculiar characteristics of this disease, although it had only begun. It is this kind of information possessed by the patient, through an intelligent physician and surgeon, which every one affected with cancer should have at once, when they discover any sore, pimple, or tumor that may be located and discovered to grow, spread or involve a greater surface of previously healthy structure. Only then will they know the importance of early attention to the case. What old citizen of any neighborhood who does not recollect some near friend whom they knew to be affected with the beginning of some cancerous disease, thought by them and the patient to be only a trifle at one time, yet which grew and spread until the disease had extended its ravages even to death? Knowledge on the part of all should, hand in hand, co-operate with true science and skill.

By sending six cents in postage stamps for this work, it will be sent to any person who is troubled with these diseases. It will be sent to any part of the United States or to Canada. This work is ready.

Medical Announcement.

CINCINNATI, January, 1882.

A new revised edition of my Monograph upon "Fistula in Ano" and Hemorrhoids is now ready.

I will say that this disease of Hemorrhoids, or Pile Tumors is so common, that not to be affected with it at some time in life would certainly be an exception instead of the rule governing the coming and frequency of the same. I feel that any information upon the nature of the origin and progress of this most frequent and disgusting disease will certainly be considered practical reading for those who are affected with the disease. There being several forms of this disease, I have classified them as plainly as I possibly could, with a view of instructing those who want to know exactly the class under which their case should be known, and what to do to be cured.

To any one who is subject to Fistula in Ano, or Hemorrhoids and who desires this new work upon these diseases, I will send it to them to any part of the United States or to the Canadas upon the receipt of six cents in postage stamps. This work is gotten up with great care. Fully illustrated with engravings. Too little has heretofore been known by the mass of people afflicted with these diseases, of the true origin, progress, and probable termination of their cases. To overcome this great heretofore error, every one should send for a copy of this invaluable work.

This work also contains the statements, above their own signatures, of over two hundred different Patients, who say that they have been cured by me, of these diseases during the past few months, with my new and successful treatment, used with my newly invented

GOLDEN INSTRUMENTS,

They being the only Instruments made with which specific and successful treatment can be used in these cases.

This book should be read, to be appreciated, by every one who is so unfortunate as to be suffering with these diseases. This book I will send to any one who sends six cents in postage stamps.

IMPORTANT ANNOUNCEMENT!TO ALL PERSONS WHO WISH TO BE CURED OFCatarrh, Laryngitis, Bronchitis, Asthma AND CONSUMPTION.

In the future my charge for the treatment of these Diseases (including the use of my Golden Instruments) will be reduced from Twenty-five Dollars to Twenty Dollars per month. Beside I will allow this (when desirable) to be made in two payments. First payment in ordering "C. O. D." Ten Dollars, and the second payment ($10) in fifteen days after the first shipment of treatment, the month to commence from the day of my shipment, my patients paying all charges for return of money and instruments sent. I have been persuaded to reduce my charge for treatment, which has heretofore been twenty-five dollars for the first month's treatment, and twenty dollars for the second month (the second month being seldom required), in view of having manufactured Twenty Thousand Dollars worth of Instruments with my own machinery, which Instruments I have now on hand, and all of my treatment ready for increased business. If this liberal proposition is appreciated I believe that it will assist hundreds of persons to be cured of these Diseases, all who, we believe, have not had heretofore the Twenty-five Dollars to pay at once. Payments can be made by P. O. Order or Banker's Check, or "C. O. D.," as the patient may prefer. Now is the time to send in your orders. All orders will be promptly filled.

In the following section of the work the cities, villages and postoffices of Dakota are arranged in alphabetical order, and a description is given of each place, with an alphabetical list of all persons doing business therein. In all the larger places the names have been procured by personal canvass, but in the smaller they have been furnished by postmasters. Great care has been taken to insure correctness, as well as completeness.

DESCRIPTIVE SKETCH OF DAKOTA TERRITORY.

Prepared by A. W. BARBER, Yankton, Dak., especially for this work.

The Territory of Dakota, as at present constituted (April 1, 1882), an immense expanse of prairie country, in a nearly rectangular form, covering about 154,000 square miles, or one-twentieth part of the whole area of the United States. Its surface is nowhere level, excepting on the alluvial plains of the chief rivers, but is usually undulating and "rolling," rising to dividing ridges 1,000 feet or more above the low lands. A few ranges of higher hills, called "coteaus," are found among the fertile grassy uplands. These coteaus are apparently of the formation known to geologists as moraines, and are composed largely of granite boulders, gravel and sand, covered with a good coat of grass. Among these stony hills are numberless little lakes, ponds, hay meadows and springs, and even these rocky, uncultivable coteaus have a certain and permanent value to the future ranchmen who may stock them with cattle and sheep. Beside the coteaus a still more mountainous section is found in the lying at the western border, where nature seems to have outdone herself in producing all that is lovely in scenery, generous to the husbandman, and remunerative to the miner. The bases of these hills are nearly 3,000 feet above the sea level, while their tops tower to a height of 6,000 to 7,000 feet. The valleys and foot-hills are being rapidly settled as farms and stock ranges, yielding bountifully of wheat, oats, vegetables, etc. Here are also extensive forests of pine and other useful timber. The "Coteau des Prairies" is an elevated plateau of high dry prairie, some 15 miles wide and 200 in length, along the eastern part of the territory, while a similar ridge extends nearly parallel to the Missouri through the middle portion. Other detached high points are found in all parts of Dakota called "Buttes," and serve as landmarks to a vast scope of prairie. The remainder of the land (perhaps including nine-tenths of the whole) is rolling prairie, covered with rich, grassy vegetation and capable of sustaining a dense population. The greatest depression of surface is in the Red River valley, which drains northward toward Hudson Bay with a slight fall, and which is only about 900 feet above tide-water. The southeast portion along the Missouri is about 300 feet higher, or 1,200 feet above the sea, while the high sandhills along the southwestern boundary rise to a height of nearly 4,000 feet. But the average altitude of the farming uplands is only from 1,400 to 1,600 feet. A feature of great advantage to the settler is the fact that the sloping surface of the prairie almost always has sufficient inclination to carry off all surplus water, yet is not steep enough to wash the plowed lands into gullies or carry off the richer elements of the soil.

COMPRISES

RIVERS AND STREAMS

intersect and drain these prairies, though less abundantly than in the Eastern States. The Missouri traverses Dakota from the northwest to the southeast, and with its immense windings gives about 1,000 miles of steamboat navigation within her borders. Four powerful lines of steamers ply on this river, called the Coulson, the Benton, the Peck, and the Kountz lines. Upon the Red River of the North, which forms the northeastern boundary, there is about 200 miles of steam navigation, the boats being peculiarly short and broad, to suit the windings of the deep, narrow stream. None of the other rivers are navigable, or carry much water at the drier season of the year. Some of the streams of the western part present the peculiarity in summer of being widest and deepest at a point midway from the source to the mouth. After gathering the drainage waters of the high lands, they flow through a different soil, in which the water all evaporates or settles, leaving the portion toward the mouth a mere dry sand-bed. The sum total of the Dakota tributaries does not perceptibly increase the volume of the Missouri, which appears as large at Ft. Buford, where it enters Dakota, as at Sioux City, where it makes its exit. The Dakota river, called also the James, and nicknamed the "Jim," is about 400 miles long, exclusive of its labyrinthine meanderings through the meadows. Near its southern end it carries numerous flouring mills, even in the driest seasons. The Sioux and Vermillion are next in length and usefulness in the southeast, while in the west are the White, Cheyenne, Bad, Moreau, Cannon-ball, and other streams. The Cheyenne drains the Black Hills, but its bed is unsuitable to any practical uses, such as navigation or rafting. In the extreme north, the Souris, or Mouse river, occupies a valley of great fertility, but thus far unsettled.

SPRINGS AND BROOKS

are in many places found to be excellent and valuable, though not as common as could be wished. But good wells can be got nearly everywhere. There has been much complaint concerning the unwholesomeness of wells along the eastern part, both in Minnesota and Dakota, but State Geologist Winchell proved by a long investigation that foul water only came from foul, neglected and long-used wells; that open wells used less than one year, and drive-wells, yielded wholesome water. He attributes the fevers and other ill effects of waters in certain sections to the impurities permitted to accumulate in open wells.

ARTESIAN WELLS

are practicable in many parts of Dakota. At Yankton a good stream flows at the top of a hill overlooking the city, from a six-inch well about 600 feet deep. In some sections flowing wells have been made by farmers boring down less than 50 feet with a hand augur. The water in all parts is more or less hard, except in the Black Hills, where the softest water may be found.

THE NATIVE VEGETATION

of the country varies with every variety of soil and surface. Over 120 different species of grasses and sedge are said to flourish here. The other prairie vegetation includes nothing useful, though the display of wild flowers is charming. But the soil has proved its perfect adaptation for producing nearly every sort of useful grain, fruit and vegetable which the latitude of Dakota would suggest. In the southern part, in latitude 43 degrees, the corn crop finds always an abundantly long, warm season for perfect growth and ripening; while oats, wheat, flax, barley, buckwheat, rye, sugar cane, peas, beans, melons, squashes, turnips, tomatoes, onions, potatoes, and all kindred products are profitably raised in abundance. As we go north toward the colder latitude of 49 degrees, the British American line, the foregoing list becomes shortened by the omission of a few products which fail to mature before early frosts. But the scantier list of farm products in North Dakota is more than compensated by the greater yield and superior quality of the

WHEAT CROP.

This is the great industry of the country. The crop is practically unfailing, and the profits of wheat farming are enormous. The first year's crop usually pays for the land, the breaking, the machinery, and all the other expenses. But as the wheat-growing capacity of Northern Dakota has been most thoroughly made known in all public prints, there is no occasion to attempt to do justice to it here. Suffice it to say, that wheat alone has built cities, railroads and steamers, enriched thousands of poor men, and transformed a limitless sea of green prairie into a settled country of splendid farms and wealthy homes—all within six or eight years.

TIMBER.

The forests along the Missouri and in the timber ravines found adjacent to most other streams, are largely composed of cottonwood, elm, oak, ash, box elder, willow, huckleberry, basswood, etc. Some of the finest bodies of cottonwood timber may still be procured at a low price, where one may cut from 60 to 100 cords to the acre. The vast sand-bars and flats along the thousand miles of the Missouri, form a perpetual natural nursery of young cottonwood trees. Thither tree-planters annually resort in great numbers for the young trees with which to plant forests on the treeless claims taken under the timber-culture act, scores of miles away. No other tree will, in the Dakota soil, bear transplanting and ill usage equal to the cottonwood, or produce a fine plantation of tall trees in as few years. But box elder and white ash are also hardy, and of great value to the settler. Besides these trees, the other varieties of native timber are mulberry, black ash, willow of several kinds, red cedar, black walnut, ironwood, yellow pine, white maple, plum, cherry, and other lesser trees.

Any of the timber that flourishes in the bottom lands will spread and cover the uplands in course of time, as soon as prairie fires are thoroughly suppressed, as experience shows to be the case in Wisconsin and Iowa.

THE CLIMATE

is no more subject to wide extremes of temperature than all other sections of the northwest. The air is pre-eminently pure, dry and invigorating. The isothermal lines show that Dakota enjoys a climate which belongs in the eastern states to a much more southern latitude. In spring and summer there is always abundant rain and heat to insure the rapid growth of vegetation to its maturity. About three-fourths of the annual rainfall usually comes when most needed—in that one-fourth of the year known as the growing season. During the remaining part of the year rains and snows are scanty, and give place to the most charming fall and winter weather, with dry roads, bare grounds, and warm, spring-like days. Open winters are the rule, and in many parts of Dakota very few people trouble themselves to provide sleighs. The famous Dakota blizzards have lost their terrors to all who have provided suitable homes, and shelter for stock, and are regarded as temporary annoyances, not to be compared in magnitude to the prolonged seasons of mud and water which in many states lay as complete an embargo upon business and travel in the winter months. Some winters pass without a single severe storm or blockade, while not one in ten brings the heavy snows that are so well known to the eastern people.

THE SOIL OF DAKOTA

is a mellow, fine black loam, of great richness and strength. The people rely too much upon its fertility and are wasteful of manures. Straw stacks and other waste products are usually burned to get rid of them. The black soil is very deep upon the low lands, and from one to three feet deep upon the higher ground. Below this is a variety of coarser soil, clay, sand, gravel or chalk. But nowhere does a heavy clay subsoil render drainage necessary. There is a liberal percentage of silex in all localities, and as much of the subsoil has been partly produced by the decomposition of soft limestone, there is an abundance of lime and plaster contained therein. Gypsum crystals are exceedingly common in the deeper strata, and the future scientific farmer of Dakota will not need to sow land plaster, to import guano, or to lay drain tiles. The lightness of the soil, and the drying winds, render necessary deeper planting of both trees and seeds; but when plants are well started, no ordinary drought seems to seriously injure them. The soil of Dakota has marvellous power to resist drought, and by its porousness to absorb moisture from the air and the subsoil to sustain vegetable life. The winds find but little resistance, for the surface is practically one vast plain, with few timber patches; but while strong and long continued wind storms are not uncommon, destructive tornadoes are almost unknown. Crops seldom are injured by wind.

which in 1881 was 41 inches at Yankton, yet in average years amounts to about 27 inches. This is far more than is received by the more arid regions westward toward the Rocky mountains. This is about as much as that of eastern Great Britain, and more than that of Germany, France and Russia.

From the accurate records of the U. S. Signal Offices, it appears that the climate is becoming more moist, and the annual precipitation is increasing. Whether cultivation of land and raising of timber patches has had any effect toward that result is not yet proved; but from the testimony of government explorers of thirty years ago it is evident that a great though gradual change for the better is taking place in the climate of Dakota. The mild, dry winters and admirable roads of the country are a valuable inducement to every farmer, teamster or traveling agent. By their means one finds one-fourth more good, fair working days in a year than he would in New York or Ohio; and by reason of the firm, dry, nearly level, roads, a team will perform one-half more hauling than in the hilly or muddy sections of the east.

GEOLOGICAL FEATURES.

These have not been extensively studied, but the uniform formation of large areas makes the subject easy of investigation. The great interior part of Dakota is wholly covered by the level strata of the vast cretaceous deposits, formed when the great inland sea covered many of these territories. Where cut through by rivers, especially the Missouri, high cliffs of chalk, clay and limestone project from the hills. Since the chalk period, the glacial drift has overwhelmed the country, torn away the upper layers, and deposited all the tertiary or upper masses of boulders, gravel, clay, sand, and, lastly, the rich, black sedimentary loam which forms the arable land of the present day. In a limited area about Sioux Falls and Rockport, the red "Sioux Quartzite" appears, furnishing inexhaustible quarries; and on the Big Sioux river there is a beautiful array of wild scenery at the famous Falls, where the waters tumble about seventy feet in breaking over the edge of this vast bed of flinty rock into the valley below. The Red River valley is leveled and filled with a deposit of several hundred feet of heavy blue clay or mud, and no rock is to be found near the surface.

In most of Northern Dakota no geological strata are discoverable until artesian wells shall have gone through the ubiquitous mass of drift. In the northwest there are beds of volcanic lava, which form some of the exposed bluffs and buttes; and at a few central localities, like Bijou Hills and Fox Hills, the summits are capped with strata of an extremely hard, glassy sandstone, which once must have spread over a wide area but is now denuded and wholly swept away except these few hilltops. But in the southwest, especially in the Black Hills, is the most interesting field of geological research. Nowhere on earth can the upheaved strata of a mountainous region, from the coal and chalk down to the igneous rocks, be better studied than in the Hills. Moreover, rich mines of great variety, placer washings, quartz mills, silver ores, mica mines, are being opened everywhere. The immense "bone-yard" of fossil remains of extinct quadrupeds along the White river and among the Bad Lands adjoining are already famous to the scientists of the whole world. Every season hither come the fossil hunting expeditions sent out by the Eastern and foreign colleges to enrich their museums with remains which are never discovered elsewhere.

WILD GAME AND FISH

abound, as in all parts of the wild and untrodden West. Antelope, deer and elk are still to be found on the frontier, and buffalo are often killed in the northwest region. Prairie fowl, plover, snipe, curlew, godwits and a countless host of game water-fowl are to be secured by the sportsman in the settled as well as the wilder sections. The numerous lakes in the eastern part swarm with fish, and the rivers are similarly well stocked.

THE THREE CHIEF SECTIONS of Dakota are greatly diverse in their occupations. Northern Dakota relies upon wheat farming and its cash profits. The Black Hills draw both mineral and agricultural wealth from the earth. The southeastern part, longest occupied, has settled down into the ordinary course of diversified agriculture and grazing, relying more upon corn, hogs, grass and cattle than small grain. Hence, while some consider this diversity of interests a good reason for separation, others claim it as a reason why the separate pursuits of these sections should be combined in one strong, self-supporting State. The "herd law" specially favors the grain raiser, and does away with the necessity of farm fences. Stock men are required to fence in their stock or herd and corral it in the farming season, instead of compelling all the farmers to fence in all their property to protect it from the depredations of vagrant cattle, as the custom prevails farther east.

BUILDING MATERIALS.

Lumber is imported from Minnesota and Chicago at fair prices, and along the Missouri and in the Hills are numerous mills which supply lumber made from the native timber. Chalk rock has been much used for walls, and is both cheap and durable. Hard rock is nearly everywhere procurable from the boulders upon the hills, and the best of lime is made from limestone boulders. In all the alluvial lands excellent brick clay is found, and the older towns are fast replacing the wooden erections with more substantial structures.

THE FUEL SUPPLY

is a source of great anxiety and expense to new comers remote from forests and railroads; but it is only for a time. The cheapness of Iowa coal, and the numerous substitutes that are used by many, enable all to avoid suffering. Hay and straw, corn stalks and other dry vegetation are largely used in mild weather. Many who are accustomed to burning hay prefer it to a load of logs at the door, which require cutting up for stove wood. Hay enough can be put up by most farmers to winter their stock and keep up their fires also. For the latter use, the coarsest slough grass and the weather-beaten spoiled hay are good enough. For 50 cents worth of labor per ton any amount of the best hay can be cut, cured and stacked under favorable conditions. In the towns and villages Pennsylvania hard coal is constantly used, except in summer, when kerosene oil takes its place in many families.

THE POPULATION

of Dakota was 185,000 by the last census; and it has undoubtedly risen to 175,000 since that date. It is composed chiefly of American born people, who have migrated westward from other States. Besides these are large settlements of Scandinavians, Germans, French, Bohemians, Russian Mennonites, Canadians, etc. The increase by immigration has been wonderful for three years past, and speculation in lands and town sites has been heavy. This is not the place to allude to the important towns, or to speak in terms of preference of rival places, as this Gazetteer shows their relative size and importance in a more impartial manner.

RAILROADS

are covering the Territory with a network of tracks, and pushing ahead with far sighted competition to secure the trade of this fast growing country. The number of miles of road now being operated by the various lines is approximately as follows, though so rapidly extending that by December, 1882, there may be 500 miles more:

	No. Miles of Track.
Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul.....	680
Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis & Omaha.....	54
Chicago & Northwestern.....	446
Northern Pacific.....	431
St. Paul, Minneapolis & Manitoba.....	139
Total length of lines in Dakota.....	1,700

SURVEYS.

Only about one-third of Dakota is yet surveyed, but the work is being rapidly extended. The office of the Surveyor General is at Yankton.

INDIAN RESERVATIONS

are established in various parts, as may be seen upon all maps. The Great Sioux Reservation, west of the Missouri, is the largest in the country, and its southern part comprises as fine an agricultural region as any of the settled lands. Since the savages have degenerated from warriors and hunters into mere beggars and ration eaters, fed by the nation without earning a penny, they do not need all their 40,000 square miles or so of land; and it is hoped that a tract of rich prairie twice as large as the State of Massachusetts may soon, by purchase, be devoted to white civilization and opened to settlement.

THE EXPORTS

of the territory are wheat, corn, hogs, cattle, barley, flaxseed, flour, butter, eggs, wool, furs and hides. Blooded stock pays well, sheep, fowls and Angora goats thrive as well as anywhere. Capitalists are turning their attention to stock-farming, and many an eastern man has invested in a stock ranch and herd, with a working partner of practical experience to give it his personal care and supervision as his contribution to the joint enterprise. During most winters, the cattle live to quite an extent upon the dry grass, though hay and shelter are provided by all successful herdsmen.

NEWSPAPERS.

In 1874 there were fourteen small weekly papers published, and no dailies. There are now one hundred weekly papers published in the territory and about a dozen dailies.

is provided for amply in the future state by the congressional gift of two sections in every township, or one-eighteenth of the whole domain, to the fund for public schools. But until organization as a state, there can be no benefit or revenue from these lands. The school interests of the people are cared for in much the same manner as in other new regions that are settled by intelligent northern people, though at present hampered by the lack of funds. In numerous places high schools and academies have been set in operation. The territorial university is located at Vermillion, and will soon be built and well endowed. There is a Normal school at Springfield, established under a late legislative act. A large college has been located at Yankton and is being built by the efforts of the Congregationalists of the whole territory. The office of Superintendent of Education is in the hands of Gen. W. H. H. Beadle, a most energetic and capable official; but in the case of many county and district school officers, his efforts at improvement are neutralized by apathy and incompetence.

LAW AND ORDER

are remarkably well sustained, in town and country. The Supreme Court, presided over by Chief Justice A. J. Edgerton, of Minnesota, and including Associate Justices Kidder, Hudson, and Moody, commands the respect and confidence of all; and offenders are dealt with usually as they deserve.

The agitation for the division of the territory into two sections, the southern part to be admitted as a State, and the northern to remain as a territory, seems likely to prove successful during the present year, and from appearances it is probable that ere these lines reach the public, Congress may have sanctioned the division as asked for by the people, or made some definite arrangement whereby this object may be accomplished.

BISMARCK. Located on the east bank of the Missouri river, at the point where the N. P. R. R. intersects it, is this city of 3,500 inhabitants, the seat of Burleigh county. It is the metropolis for the whole of the far northwest, and has been since its early days a central receiving and distributing point, the region in which it is situated having been the great battle ground of the Sioux and the allied tribes of the Arneckaries, Gros Ventres and Mandans. When the territory first began to be settled Bismarck became the centre of the great stage route to Deadwood and the Black Hills. In addition to the shipping facilities afforded by the N. P. R. R., the steamboat business of the place via the Missouri river is very extensive, five lines, controlling some 40 vessels, have headquarters here, and ply to Fort Benton, 1,200 miles above, on the Missouri, 300 miles on the Yellowstone, and 75 on the Big Horn. Although but a decade has passed since the first white settlement was made here, the place has already become a city. Its growth has been marvelous. It has 2 banks, a first-class daily newspaper, the Tribune, which also issues a weekly edition, several good hotels, a steam flour mill, machine shop and numerous stores and artisan shops, fully representing all trades, professions and callings. A new enterprise in Bismarck, and one which bids fair to prove financially a success, is the Bismarck Greenhouses, an institution which is a great credit to the town and to the energy and nerve of the proprietor, Major Edward M. Fuller. These houses cover eighteen hundred feet of ground, and are built in the most thorough and substantial manner, at a cost of about $4,000, heated by hot water, and so constructed as to be quickly covered from hail, etc. They are models for older institutions in the states to follow. The city is quite well built, contains several handsome blocks and residences; its court house cost $30,000, and is an imposing structure; many improvements in buildings, etc., have been lately made, aggregating some $200,000 in value. The bonded debt of the city is $5,000, while it has an assessed valuation of $1,000,000. Water works will be put in next year, and a fire department is already established. The religious necessities are well cared for, there being churches of the Methodist, Episcopal, Catholic and Baptist denominations. There are 4 public graded schools, employing 8 teachers, and having an average attendance of 400 scholars. The nature of land in the vicinity is a black loam, clay sub-soil very deep and productive; extensive deposits of coal underlie a large area of the adjacent country, and mines are profitably worked. The price of farms in the neighborhood ranges from $20 to $100 per acre, and wild land can be bought from $3 to $15. The surrounding country is among the richest in the northwest. The great bonanza farms on the line of the N. P. R. R. pour their produce through the city on its way to market. The exports of the place are chiefly wheat, furs, hides and coal. Bismarck is the headquarters of the U. S. military telegraph line, the officer in charge controlling 2,500 miles of wire. Stages to Fort Benton, Deadwood, Yankton and all intermediate points. Mail, daily. Exp., N. P. C. A. Lounsberry, postmaster.

CANTON. An enterprising and rapidly growing village of 1,200 persons, situated on the Big Sioux river, which divides Dakota from Minnesota. It is the seat of Lincoln county and is quite an important railroad point. The I. & D. div. of the C., M. & St. P. Ry is here intersected by the S. C. & D. br. of the same road, and Canton is the receiving and distributing point for a thickly settled and rapidly growing portion of the Territory. Two flouring mills are run by the power afforded by the river, 2 newspapers, the Sioux Valley News and the Canton Advocate are published, 2 banks transact business, and the place contains a full representation of all the various callings. Two good hotels afford ample accommodation to the traveling public. Four churches of the Episcopal, Methodist, Lutheran and Baptist denominations and graded schools are sustained. A fire recently destroyed a considerable portion of the business part of the city, but energetic efforts are being made to rebuild, and handsome blocks will undoubtedly be erected in place of the burned wooden stores. Agricultural land in the vicinity can be purchased at from $4 to $12 per acre, according to improvements. The exports are grain, flour and live stock. The U. S. CHAMBERLAIN. Previous to June, 1881, the site of the town of Chamberlain had not a structure within many miles of it. Now the place, although little more than six months old, contains upwards of a hundred business houses and private residences, and over 500 inhabitants. It is the western terminus of the I. & D. div. of the C., M. & St. P. Ry, on Missouri river, and from its position must certainly become an important point. It is the headquarters for a number of steam boats doing an extensive river business. It also has the finest wharf and landing on the Missouri river, north of Kansas City, Mo. The county seat of Brule has been removed to this point, the town is in a flourishing condition, the surrounding country is rapidly settling up, and a brilliant future is in store for Chamberlain. The Wright House offers good accommodations to the traveling public, a bank, church and district school are here, and a newspaper, the Dakota Register, is published. Good opportunities are presented for all classes and professions. Stage to Yankton daily, and to Pierre tri-weekly. Exp., U. S. Mail, daily. S. D. Cook, postmaster.

an unbroken wilderness. The first settlement was made in 1875, and in 1879 it only contained 50 persons. Now it is one of the most prosperous and enterprising towns in the Black Hills. Gold and mica are discovered in the vicinity, and 4 mining companies are in operation. Several good hotels are here, also a bank and a live, energetic weekly newspaper—the Chronicle, which is edited with spirit and ability. All the principal trades and professions are well represented. Many stores and business houses are here; in fact the place has all the features of a first-class city. The town of Custer and surrounding country is settling up rapidly, and the place has a prosperous future in store. Good opportunities are presented to intending settlers in almost any business or profession. The nearest railroad point at present is Pierre, 200 miles east, but the C., M. & St. P. Ry have projected a branch to Custer, which is looked for shortly. Stage to Rapid City, Deadwood and Buffalo Gap, and all intermediate points; fares, $6, $8 and $5 respectively. H. A. DAWSON. A post station on the line of the N. P. R. R., in Kidder county, 148 miles west of Fargo. The settlement was started in the fall of 1881 and already contains an elevator, a school house, a church and several stores and dwellings. Mail, daily.

DEADWOOD. The Metropolis of the Black Hills. With the exception of Chicago no city has experienced so remarkably rapid a development as this city of 4,000 inhabitants since its almost total destruction by fire in the fall of 1879. It is constructed in a far more solid and tasteful manner than was the original city, which was established in 1877 and was composed almost entirely of hastily erected wooden buildings, designed only for immediate occupancy and without any regard to style or permanency. It is located in the canyon of Whitewood creek and is almost entirely shut in by hills. It is the county seat of Lawrence county, 20 miles from the line of Wyoming territory, 15 south of the Belle Fourche river, 50 north of Custer, 225 southwest of Bismarck and the same distance from Sidney, Neb., and Cheyenne, Wyo., and 190 from Pierre, the nearest railroad point, on D. C. div. C., M. & St. P. Ry. The place contains the usual features of a first-class city. Among its business enterprises may be found, besides the many quartz mills, 9 saw-mills, 2 planing mills, a flouring mill, feed mill, brick yard, brewery, and numerous stores and shops representing all the various callings and professions. Five churches and 4 public schools are here, 2 banks, a public hall, 6 good hotels and several first-class restaurants. Four newspapers, having daily and weekly editions, are published. The city has a bonded debt of $375,000, and an assessed valuation of over $1,000,000. The wealth of the surrounding hills and gulches is simply marvelous, consisting of gold, silver, mica, salt and coal mines, peculiarly fine lubricating oil, and with great advantages over other mining districts in having a splendid agricultural district surrounding it. Deadwood, during the past year (1881), has experienced a slight reaction, common to all towns of such rapid growth, but its local surroundings are such that with capital
